THURSDAY EVENING, MAR. 12, 1896.

RECAPS AGAIN.—A dispatch from Milwaukee says: Rev. Wm. Manifold has, for the third time, decided that he cannot be a Catholic, and is making overtures to return to the Protestant Episcopal faith. Whether he will succeed is largely speculative. He is still a young man, being only thirty-eight years of age, and graduated from the Theological Seminary of the Episcopal Church in New York city, a little more than seven years ago.

He originally studied for deacon's orders at the Philadelphia Divinity School, of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and went to St. Luke's church, in Germantown. Here he displayed ritualistic tendencies that got him into trouble with Dr. Upjohn, and caused him to resign. He applied to Bishop Whitaker, of Pennsylvania, first, and received holy orders, going to St. Clement's church, Philadelphia. Here he preached Catholicism and resigned. He then applied to Archbishop Ryan for admission to the Catholic church, and was sent to Rome and ordained.

He reapplied for admission to the Episcopal church at Milwaukee. He went to Washington, later became a Catholic, and now resigns and becomes an Episcopal rector.

A BULL FOR SALE.—A Washington correspondent of the Richmond Dispatch says: "Colonel Waller, the President's recent host once introduced a Washington butcher to a settler in the neighborhood, and several sales of cattle were arranged. The bull-dogter bought a young bull, but couldn't catch him. The young farmer had the money, but the beef was on the wing."

"Get in Human!" the butcher, who was a "Dutchman," "lose de monish and de little bull, too."

"Of course," said the farmer, "that's the little bull that was put on the steambath, and he uttered the whole crew off the boat, and took to his native fields again. The next man who bought him set fire to the broom-sedge to corner the animal on that point of the marsh, and the bull swam across to M. Robinson's point, and the next week back home, grazing in his old fields."

"Do you keep that little bull to sell 'im all de time?"

"That's just about it, mein her," said the steambathman, "but don't give it away, and you can come and get the commissions."
